OVERVIEW & NEEDS

Somalia continues to face complex and protracted humanitarian crises due to the coronavirus pandemic, climate-related shocks (floods, drought, cyclone), desert locusts, conflict and the protracted situation affecting internally displaced persons (IDPs). A total of 5.9 million people are projected to be in need of humanitarian assistance in 2021 across Somalia, including 2.6 million IDPs. As of 2 February 2021, Somalia had confirmed a total of 4,784 COVID-19 cases with 3,700 recoveries and 130 fatalities. Women and girls face the worst consequences of all. Vulnerable pregnant mothers and women of reproductive age in communities for IDPs and hard-to-reach locations continue to have access problems to Sexual and Reproductive Health (SRH). Loss of livelihoods and food insecurity among female-headed households and other vulnerable women and adolescent girls has worsened the dependency on food aid and humanitarian assistance.

UNFPA Somalia continues to provide access to life-saving integrated SRH and Gender-Based Violence (GBV) services, including the provision of COVID-19 adapted dignity kits and psychosocial support services, as well as risk communication activities. UNFPA Somalia also used flexible resources to train frontline health care workers, midwives and social workers on Infection Prevention and Control (IPC), Case Management, Minimum Initial Service Package (MISP) for sexual and reproductive health in crisis situations, referral mechanisms, and coordination between different actors involved in the management of SRH and GBV services during crises. The UN agency and its partners also support data in humanitarian action and engagement of youth in the COVID-19 risk communication and community engagement, provides personal protective equipment (PPE) and supports the safety of patients and health workers through strengthening infection, prevention and control.

UNFPA Somalia prioritizes the integration of services for sexual and reproductive health and rights, gender-based violence prevention and response, and mental health and psychosocial support response to the many core needs of women and adolescent girls as well as men and adolescent boys affected by crises. The capacity of UNFPA partners is strengthened to support GBV survivors, who, typically contend with both mental and physical repercussions. Responding to these issues requires health facilities and mobile clinics to provide sensitive services to support maternal and newborn health, birth-spacing options and the clinical management of rape. Safe spaces for women, girls and young people, as well as one-stop centres for survivors of GBV, should offer mental health and psychosocial services.

Furthermore, UNFPA Somalia continues to update its continuity plan to the address the COVID-19 related restrictions and ensure time-critical activities and functions related to managing the safety and security of staff despite the crisis and restrictions on physical movement in Somalia. The UNFPA country office has established systems and tools, including e-signatures and an e-filing system required to continue signing work plans and disbursing cash in a paperless fashion.
